A photograph of two women in a professional setting, likely a conference or meeting. The woman on the left, with long dark hair and wearing a black blazer, is looking towards the woman on the right. The woman on the right, also with long dark hair and wearing glasses and a light-colored top, is gesturing with her hands while speaking. They are seated at a table with a glass of water and some papers. In the background, other people are visible, slightly out of focus. The text "Championing the next generation of leaders is only possible with great mentors." is overlaid on the image.
